

SC Institutional Galleries

Updated February 1, 2008

February Issue 2008

Pawleys Island, Litchfield & Murrells Inlet

Rosetta

Joy Kroeger Beckner

Brookgreen Gardens, US 17, south of Murrells Inlet. Jennewein Gallery, Through Mar. 9 - "Pooches and Purebreds: Canine Images in Sculpture," presents a variety of dogs, from sporting breeds to mutts, interpreted by the foremost animal sculptors in America. Noble Gallery, Through Mar. 9 - "Figurative Felines: The Sculptured Cat," depicts the sinuous quality of the feline form and the gracefulness and power of the cat in its daily activities. E. Craig Wall, Jr. Lowcountry Center, Through Mar. 30 - "Cross-Continental Cultural Connections," featuring an educational display showcasing stunning artifacts about Gullah and West African cultures. Ongoing - "Lowcountry: Change and Continuity," a major new exhibit, tells the story of human interaction with this land over the centuries. It features wall size photomurals by SC naturalist photographer Tom Blagden, along with a range of artifacts tracing the history of man's occupation of this extraordinary landscape. General Gardens, Ongoing - One of the largest collections of outdoor sculpture in America. This preeminent collection of American representational sculpture includes - 560 works by 240 artists - representing such well-known artists as Charles Parks, Daniel Chester French, Carl Milles, August Saint-Gaudens and Anna Hyatt Huntington. Hours: daily, 9:30am-5pm. Admission: Yes. Admission to Brookgreen is good for seven days. Contact: 843/235-6000 , 800-849-1931, or at (www.brookgreen.org).

Many Thanks to

Robin Salmon,

Vice President for Collections and Curator of Sculpture, at Brookgreen Gardens, for including "Lives to Please" in this publicity, that was available on the web from February 1 through March 31, 2008.

Joy

636.532.3216

www.joybeckner.com